

HANNAH IS GUATEMALA BOUND

The Where and What

I am excited to share my plans about going to Guatemala September 22-October 1st as part of a mission team. I will be working alongside the staff at the Arms of Jesus Children's Mission Christian School (AOJ) in the Antigua area.

What will I be doing?

One of our projects will be building new houses for some poor families who presently live in houses made of cornstalk or cardboard. Some of our other activities will be participating in food distribution, foot washing and giving new shoes to school children, etc. You can check out photos on their Facebook page.

How can you help?

I'm ecstatic about the opportunity to work along side the team at AOJ and I can't wait to meet the children and families in Antigua. I ask that you pray that God would work through me and help me to make the difference He wants me to make.

The total cost for the trip is $2450.00 which covers my flight, food, accommodation, in-country travel, etc. This is a step of faith for me in raising the funds I need to go on this trip, so I trust the Lord for this also. If you would like to share in what I am doing, donation details are noted below.

*Thank you!
